PRESS RELEASE

Burckhardt+Partner AG merges its two German subsidiaries

As of 1 June 2020, Swiss architectural office Burckhardt+Partner AG is merging its two German subsidiaries into Burckhardt+Partner GmbH. The company will retain its presence in Berlin, Grenzach and Stuttgart. With this merger, the international company will now also position itself on the German market with a consistent name.

B+P Reiner Becker GmbH has been part of Burckhardt+Partner AG since 2017. This has allowed Burckhardt+Partner to redefine their international field of activity, expand its business further and strengthen its international network.

As of 1 June 2020, B+P Reiner Becker GmbH will be merged with Burckhardt+Partner GmbH, retaining the latter name. Along with the motto “experienced for tomorrow”, the use of a consistent name across national borders now also reflects the culture, values and quality of the office. With digital possibilities making it feasible to work independently of location, each Burckhardt+Partner site benefits from the many years of experience of the Burckhardt+Partner Group.

The team in Berlin works across the whole of Germany, with a focus on scientific, research and university constructions, primarily for public building developers. Projects from industry and the private sector round off its range of services. As in Switzerland, the sites in Germany also strive to find solutions for architectural tasks on various scales that are demanding in functional and design terms as well as technically complex.

The Berlin site will be strengthened further in Germany, with its 35-strong team of employees set to relocate to new offices at Kaiserin-Augusta-Allee 14 on the edge of the district of Mitte in Moabit – new name in tow. The new address boasts enough space for further growth, and with a roof terrace and views over Berlin, it is also a great place to hold future events.
