Teaching and Learning Center, Wiesbaden (Germany)
Convincing

At the start of 2019, our teaching and learning center for the RheinMain University of Applied Sciences in Wiesbaden emerged from a competition as the winning project. This new building has a workshop-like nature and invites students to communicate. The inner structure and division of space in the compact new four-story building with 4,000 m² of utilizable area offer very high flexibility. Here, from the start of 2023 onward, students of various disciplines will find excellent conditions for learning.

Cantonal Hospital, Aarau (Switzerland)
Combined

The prerequisites for implementation of the new Aarau Cantonal Hospital were established at the end of 2019, when the contract for work and services was signed. Our so-called Triad project, prepared in cooperation with wörner traxler richter, won a multi-stage full-service competition. It enables efficient operational structures by means of short routes and ideal interconnection of the individual wards. This means that outpatient clinics, functional areas and inpatient wards are combined in one easily understandable structure.

Private Clinic, Oetwil am See (Switzerland)
Accentuated

With this new four-story replacement building, we have accentuated the private clinic Clenia Schössli in Oetwil am See in an architectural sense. The new Building D, the winning project from an architectural competition, was opened in June 2019. It impresses with its coherent integration into the structural context and simultaneous architectural independence. The sedate yet strong exterior design of the new building, with concrete ledges and clinker brick, conveys reliability and security. Patient recovery is facilitated by a home-like flair and the fact that the patient rooms face the park landscape.

Swiss Embassy, Seoul (South Korea)
Award-winning

The Swiss Embassy in Seoul was inaugurated in May 2019 during a week-long cultural event with many international guests. The embassy building represents Switzerland in South Korea with an air of confidence. As a Swiss hanok, it reinterprets the Korean courtyard house and combines local construction techniques with Swiss construction quality.

For this reason, the new Swiss Embassy won the Korean Architecture Excellence Award in November 2019 and has also received numerous other awards. Our architects had the privilege of planning and realizing this structure on behalf of the Federal Office for Buildings and Logistics after winning a competition.

Site Development, Pratteln (Switzerland)
Future-oriented

Over the next 20 years, the new district Bredella is to be built right by Pratteln railway station. The site's close proximity to the station positions it in the context of Basel's dynamically developing metropolitan area. Our project developers have prepared the master plan and guideline project for the transformation of this industrial area into an urban neighborhood worth living in, which will be characterized by interplay between carefully designed urban spaces and diverse living environments.

Crèche, Apartments and Stores, Lausanne (Switzerland)
Preserving

Crèche de Collonges on Avenue de France in Lausanne is characterized by our stylish interior design. The crèche has been in use since summer 2019 and accommodates 56 children in a building from the 1930s. This project was part of a larger building renovation, encompassing 125 apartments and 15 stores, which we carried out for Helvetia Assurances with utmost care, preserving the historical building fabric.

Boutique Hotel, Basel (Switzerland)
Stylish

A charming boutique hotel in the upper 4-star range is to appear in the heart of central Basel. For this purpose, the Märthof building in the Basel square Marktplatz is being completely renovated. We were commissioned by Coop Immobilien to redesign this historical building. It is envisaged that the conversion will simultaneously breathe new life into one of Basel's most central squares. The dismantling work inside the building began in December 2019.

Research Institute, Halle (Germany)
Complex

We have been given the task of building an extension for the renowned Max Planck Institute of Microstructure Physics in Halle. Chemistry and physics laboratory areas, large cleanroom experimentation areas, and offices are all being realized on Martin Luther University's Weinberg campus. Research into very different areas of microphysics will be conducted here in future, making this a highly fascinating and complex architectural planning task.

Cooperative Apartments, Basel (Switzerland)
Cooperative

After winning a competition held by the Riburg housing cooperative to obtain a long-term modernization strategy, we are now realizing the first construction phase as project developers and architects. The groundbreaking ceremony for these cooperative apartments near the center of Basel took place in June 2019. Along with large outdoor spaces, attractive apartments for families are being created in three-story buildings constructed as modular wooden structures. The neighborhood is being adeptly condensed, while retaining its typical neighborhood character, with housing rows and courtyards in between.

Exhibitions, Munich (Germany)
Transformed

Is architecture a matter of perspective? In fall 2019, we changed perceptions with our Transformations exhibitions at the Munich Architecture Gallery. At the same time, we also created new spaces, recombined the pre-existing, interpreted our own history, and worked with the latest technologies and artistic approaches. Architecture in an exchange with culture.

Company Headquarters, Zuchwil (Switzerland)
Image-forming

Our architects planned the new company headquarters for Borer Chemie in Zuchwil using a collaborative building information modeling process (BIM) and handed it over to the client in October 2019. Outstanding image-forming industrial architecture was created for this company, a technological leader in the cleaning and disinfection sectors.

Learning Center, St. Gallen (Switzerland)
Innovative

The new HSG Learning Center for the University of St. Gallen symbolizes the teaching and learning venue of the future: Together with Japanese architectural office Sou Fujimoto, we are planning and realizing a place for students to think and work, which will enable innovative forms of learning in the digital age. The groundbreaking ceremony took place at the start of November 2019.

Burckhardt+Partner can look back on a demanding year of strong revenue. All business units were able to increase revenue, contributing to the company's success. Last year, our approximately 400 staff members worked on over 200 architectural projects and more than 50 project development tasks. Our own eight current residential construction projects, at various stages of development, are making a substantial contribution to revenue.

2019 Burckhardt+ Partner Architects and general planners

With our architecture, we shape cityscapes and society. We transform perception. We interpret and recombine the pre-existing, as seen at architecture exhibitions in Munich, to name but one example. In our daily work, we design rooms and buildings, and we develop entire sites. We change situations and make new things possible. In so doing, we also create living environments for each individual, and for society as a whole.
